Frankfort, Ky., Oct. 24.—That Gov. Beckham is eligible to succeed himself, is held by former Chief Justices Pryor and Hazelrigs, former Congressman N. T. Ellis and Col. Lewis McQuown, in an opinion furnished Beckham to-day. The question as to his eligibility was first 4 Hopkinswille, a few days ago.
Gov. Beckham has not yet made a doubt as to the question formal nanouncement of his candidacy to succeed himself. but will likely do so within the next few formed and advised by the leatent of the fact that Beckham enterprovides that the governor shall be elected for the term of four years, but shall be ineligible to succeed himself. It is the claim of Gov. Beckham and his friends that at the close of his present term he will have only served three years and eleven months, and having not served a full term of four years, as prescribed by the constitution, he is eligible for re-election.

In his letter, which is concurred in by the four other distinguished lawyers, Judge Pryor says there will have only served three years and lawyers.

Mr. Hendrick says that the position and said he was sorry pryor studiously avoided comment the close of his present term he will have only served three years and leven months, and having not served a full term of four years, as presertibed by the constitution, he is eligible for re-election.

In his letter, which is concurred in by the four other distinguished lawyers, Judge Pryor says there of the constitution as authority. It is as follows: "Section 70—He shall be gleeted for the term of four years by the qualified voters of the state. The person having the highest number of votes shall be governor: but if two or more shall be equal and highest in votes, the election shall be determined by lot in such maner as the general assembly may direct."

In speaking of the above section Judge Pryor says that it not only first the term, but in case of a tie. Section 20. We have the matter in doubt, and this misself to run it out and spare the first term, only holding six more than the proposal p

He then asks what term has been provided or fixed so as to make Gov. Beckban ineligible for the succeeding four years? He answers the question by saying it is the term for which he was elected; and that term is definite and certain—four years. The opinion is a lengthy one and covers the case in detail from start to finish, and in closing the cited several cases established as a precedent in other states, and also the Helm-Stevenson-Leslie and the continuation of He then asks what term has been

A DARING AMERICAN.

Will Fight a Cannibal Tribe-to Gain a Treasure Island.

Arthuran Charles Archived from San Diego, Cal. Its destination is Tiburon, an island 30 miles long and 20 wide lying in the Gulf of California, near the State of Sonora. Meadows' authority for its occupation is a deed from the Mexican government to him for the entire island. Thuron is said to be fabluously rich in gold, silver and copper. It also has valuable guane deposits. Furthermore, it is the home of the Seri Indians, a cannibal tribe white so gain access to its wealth. The Mexican government, says a New York World writer, does not guarantee peaceable possession of the island; Meadows must take his chances on this. He believes he will find little trouble in conquering the natives. There are people in San Diego, however, who have reason to believe otherwise.

Five years ago the steamer World, a San Diego boat, marined by George Foster, John Johnson and a Mexican guide, dropped anchor at Tiburon. Foster and Johnson ware seeking the hird known as the king egret, the feathers of which have a high market value.

bird known as the king egret, the feathers of which have a high-market value.

The Mexican returned to the main land alone. He reported that the party had been attacked and made entitives. After a time George Foster was killed and eaten by the cambials. Later Johnson was killed and probably met a similar fale. As to that, however, the Mexican could not say, for he found opportunity to clude his captors and escaped.

Capit. Lewis B. Harris, also a resident of San Diego, formerly commanded the schooner Emma and Louise, engaged in the guano trade among the islands of the California guil. He knew the island well, though he never went on shore there, having heard of the character of the inhabitants. He has frequently dropped anchor off the island and his vessel was on each occasion visited by natives in canoes. He describes them as hideous looking, ferocious, repulsive and utterly degraded. He says:

"I learned while in the southern seribes them as hideous looking, ferecieus, repulsive and utterly degraded. He says:

"I learned while in the southern country that Lieut, R. E. Robinson and his partner, Logan, were surely killed and eaten by the Seris of Tiburon. I talked with a survivor of the party, a Mexican, who gave the details of the case. When I saw the Indiana I believed the story." So the portion of the island lies have made frequent raids upon the Mexicans of the main land, stealing women and children.

One of the conditions of the sale of the island to Meadows is that he is to subdue the natives and establish at least ten families upon the island within two years.

Meadows will sail, with the 40 men who have signed articles to aid him, around Cape Lucas and across the gulf, where he will be joined by several smaller boats and their crews now on the Coloradoriver. Then this small navy will move upon the island. After that, as Meadows puts it, "there will be a little benevolent assimilation, and there will be some good Indians or no Indians."

sotable Books Which Have Been Temperarily Lest Sight Of.

The books of the Bible themselves have experienced the narrowest escapes from what might have resulted in their total loss. The most notable example is that of Deuteronomy, which disappeared from the Jewish world for over a century. The story of its rediscovery by the high priest Hezekiah during the reign of the good king, Josiah, is set forth in the Old Testament.

Shakespeare was practically forgotten in the days when Addison wrote his "Account of the Greatest English Poets," with never a mention of the name of the very greatest. Yet it was very shortly afterward that Shakespeare was resuscitated.

The Most Popular Lady In Christian County to Be Determined By Ballot.

The Winner Will Be Awarded a Set of Furniture worth $110.

A VOTING contest was begun August 29, for four months, to determine by popular vote the most popular lady in Christian County. To the lady receiving the highest number of votes, we will present an elegant set of bedroom furniture, now on exhibition at. Pyle & Ganett s. It is of quartered oak, of the finest make and latest style, and is worth $110. The contest will close at 12 o'clock, noon, Monday, December 29, 1902. The plan will be as follows:

Every subscriber to the Kentuckian who pays back dues or cash in advance will be entitled to cast one vote for each five cents paid. That is to say, a subscriber who pays $2.00 will have 40 votes, one who pays $1.00 will have 20 votes and so on for any amount large or small. In every paper published there will be a coupon and these coupons when cut out and brought or sent to the office will represent each one vote. A subscriber will also have the privilege of gathering up coupons clipped by friends from their papers and voting them one at a time, or by the hundred if preferred. One will also have the privilege of buying papers at the office at five cents each and voting the coupons cut from them.

The coupon ballots will be deposited in a ballot box with two keys. One of these keys will be held by County Judge W.T. Fowler and the other by Mayor Jouett Henry. The box will be opened not oftener than once a week, all ballots then in it taken out, counted and certified to, sealed up in an envelope and replaced in the ballot box. The envelope will contain a state-ment of the votes in it, so that its contents will not need to be counted again until the official count at the close of the contest,

The last week of the contest the ballots may be deposited without showing them, so that the close of the contest may be secret and exciting to the end.

PLUCKY FULTON WOMAN.

Shoots at a Burglar Who Leaves a Trail of Blood.

Fulton, Ky., Oct. 25.—Burglars attempted to enter the home of W. Fred Long, on Commercial street. Mrs. Long was alone at home, her husband, who is an Illinois Central train dispatcher, being on duty. She was awakened by a noise at the door. She arose and secured her revolver, went to the door and asked who was there. Failing to receive an answer, she cautiously opened the door and fired. The man escaped over the rear fence. Blood was traced for several blocks.

Twice County Jailer, Dies at Crofton.

Aquilla B. Long, of Crofton, died at his home Friday morning of crysipelas, aged about 65 years. He was one of the most prominent Democrats in his part of the county, In 1878 Mr. Long was elected jailer on the Democratic ticket, defeating Anderson Morgan, and was reelected in 1882 over Bd. Glass, colored. In both contests he ran many votes ahead of his ticket. In 1886 he ran against Maj. Jon. W. Breathitt for county clerk, but was defeated.

Every farmer knows that me plants grow better than thers. Soil may be the same and seed may seem the same out some plants are weak and but some plants are weak and others strong.

And that's the way with children. They are like young plants. Same food, same home, same care but some grow big and strong while others stay small and weak.

Scott's Emulsion offers an easy way out of the difficulty. Child weakness often means starvation, not because of lack of food, but because the food does not feed.

Scott's Emulsion really feeds and gives the child growing trength.

VOYING

The Most Popular Lady In Christian County to Be Determined By Ballot.

The Winner Will Be Awarded a Set of Furniture worth $110.

A VOTING contest was begun August 29, for four months, to determine by popular vote the most popular lady in Christian County. To the lady receiving the highest number of votes, we will present an elegant set of bedroom furniture, now on exhibition at Pyle & s. It is of quartered oak, of the finest make and latest Ganett s. style, and is worth $10. The contest will close at 12 o'clock, noon, Monday, December 29, 1902. The plan will be as follows:
Every subscriber to the Kentuckian who pays back dues or cash in advance will be entitled to cast one vote for each five cents paid. That is to say, a subscriber who pays $2.00 will have 40 votes, one who pays $1.00 will have 20 votes and so on for any amount large or small. In every paper published there will be a coupon and these coupons when cut out and brought or sent to the office will represent each one vote. A subscriber will also have the privilege of gathering up coupons clipped by friends from their papers and voting them one at a time, or by the hundred if preferred. One will also have the privilege of buying papers at the office at five cents each and voting the coupons cut from them.

The coupon ballots will be deposited in a ballot box with two keys. One of these keys will be held by County Judge W.T. Fowler and the other by Mayor Jouett Henry. opened not oftener than once a week, all ballots then in it taken out, counted and certified to, sealed up in an envelope and replaced in the ballot box. The envelope will contain a state-ment of the votes in it, so that its contents will not need to be counted again until the official count at the close of the contest.

The last week of the contest the ballots may be deposited without showing them, so that the close of the contest may be secret and exciting to the end.

slave of his pen, and never strolled in his life. No authorever oweld in his life. No authorever oweld in his life. No authorever owel for other of the decation or book learning and more to a perpetually fresh and unsophisticated mind and to sociable intercourse with the bright spirits of his day, the upper Bohemia, the best artists, dramatic authors and lions of various kinds of his time. His one accomplishment was his next flowing, clerkly handwriting. But he knew nothing of science, or any kind of serious literature, and as he had never thought of punctuation before he burst on the world as an author, left it always to the proof reader. Like Rosenin, if Dunns has not been the author of Monte Cristo and other novels that brought his scan a fortner (which he spent a soon as he made it), he might have been a great cook.

I partook, says a writer in the London News, of a lunch he cooked two years before his death at the house of Gudin, the painter. He came to cook it in this way: Gudin, meeting him on a Friday on the boulevard, said: "A friend has just sent me three splendid turkeys from Devonshire. What shall I do with them?" "You should let me cook them," said Dunas. "All right. But I must go to-morrow to prepare them for the spit." Dunas arrived next

"You should let me cook them," said Dumas. "All right. But I must go to-morrow to prepare them for the spit." Dums arrived next morning with a hemperful of truffles for the turkeys, and, not to allow any to go waste, brought calves' sweet-breads and other delicacies which are the better for truffle accompaniments. He prepared his "plats' carefully, and suggested that if Gudin wished to invite friends to a particularly well-cooked lunch then was his time. "Perhaps," he added, "you had better call on Alboni and ask her to come. She will crown the feast by singing a brindis! So said, so done. Dumas acted as chef in the kitchen until it was almost time to serve the lunch.

A mod brilliant company had been invited to judge of "le grand Alexandre's" culinary talents. They declared he deserved the name of "Alexandre le Grand," and expressed their sorrow that his literary genius had deprived the world of the greatest chef of the nineteenth century. Dumas used also to cook the grand dinners which Mmc. Rattazzi gave at Florence when her hus-land was prime minister of Italy.

who are interested in these paintings.

The two painting's removed represent an owl and an animal supposed to have been either a wolf or a deg. The owl picture was the best of all the Indian paintings, having stood the weathering processes better and having been better located on the bluffs. The person who took these paintings must have been assisted by a skillful stone cutter, as the owl was painted on the bold face of the cliff. To remove the picture it was necessary to make a cut around the representation of an owl and then to make a deep out behind it with a chiesel. This was accomplished successfully, as the face of the rock shows only a deep hollow where the picture was.

The picture of the quadruped whose identify was in doubt was on a rock which fell from the buff, presumably after the Indian painting was done, and had lain on the ledge above the Mississippi river for many generations. The corner of rock bearing the likenses of the animal was broken off by the use of a quarry drill, the two marks of the drill being very distinct on the rock.

THE VALUE OF BOOKS.

THE VALUE OF BOUKS.

A Writer Says They Are Insurance Poltoice Against Londiness.

Books are insurance policies; fully paid, and can be cashed at any time, writes O. S. Martden, in Success.
They insure against ioneliness, for in a moment we can, in our mind's eye, call in the most delightful company of all ages. We can revel in the drollery of Sam Weller, or laugh at Mr.
Pickwick; hear Tom Sawyer recount his liveliest exploits, or smile indulof all ages. We can revel in the droilery of Sam Weller, or laugh at Mr.
Pickwick; hear Tom Sawyer recount his liveliest exploits, or smie indulgently at garrulous Diedrich Knickerbocker. If in a tender mood, we may roam with gentle grieving Evangeline in search of her lost lover, or let our heart sitr in sympathy with Little Nell. If life seems tame and commonplace, one's bookshelf has the policy that provides for the emergency. With Homer we may ellow the deeds of the mighty ancient warriors. We may flee to a lonely isle with ever-handy Robinson
Crusoe, sail under seas with Captain Nemo, share the romantic savagery of Hiawatha or the last of the Mohicans, or unravel mysteries with Sherlock Holmes. If friends disappoint us, we may turn to those that are ever constant in the pages that have grown dear to us, or we may reassure eur doubts of human faithfulness by reading about Damon and Pythias, or Penelope. Insurance against discouragement is found in the life of George Washington, Abraham Lincoln, Fred Douglass, or Booker T.
Washington, any of whom conquered more than can possibly confront us.
If we are listless and indifferent, we have but to open a book of the history of the deeds of olden herees. If we feel the tightening coils of selfishmess strangling our good impulses, we may read of those who have given their labor and their lives to help their fellow creatures, and so shame ourselves to higher thinking and more unselfish doing.

Wewsbey Who Was Suppised by Pinancier Morgan's Generosity.

While J. P. Morgan was driving down Nassau street, New York, to his office in a closed cab the other morning he was recognized by a little newsboy as the cab passed Liberty street. Immediately he saw the financier he darted toward the cab and shouted at the top of his voice; "Hi, Mr. Morgan. Coal strike extra."

Mr. Morgan was pleased at the boy's familiarity. He reached for the paper and threw the boy a half dollar. The little fellow picked up the money, and, without hesitating, ran after the cab again and jumped on behind. Before the cab pulled up at Mr. Morgan's office the newsboy was on the sidewalk. As Mr. Morgan stepped out the boy, holding the change from the 50-cent piece in his outstretched hand, said: "Yer change, Mister Morgan," Why, my little man," said Mr. Morgan, in some astonishment, "what is this for?"
